

NJ's consumer protection law should NOT be weakened. Calling homes and interrupting people at inconvenient times is an invasion of privacy. I wouldn't want a store owner to run out onto the street and pull me into his store and try to sell me something. Wouldn't that be outrageous? Should I call a policeman if that happened? It's the same thing, having a vendor call my home to try to sell me something that I have no interest in. I do not want telephone calls that are not wanted.